The Historical Lie Regarding the Alleged German Aggression on Poland in 1939

From the Committee Against the Suppression of the Truth in Germany.

Translated from the German and Enhanced by Frank Schmidt

An indisputable account of who was actually responsible for the outbreak of World War II

Heimat Publishers,Toronto, Canada

The Historical Lie Regarding the Alleged German Attack on Poland in 1939

From the Alliance Against the Suppression of Truth in Germany.

Translated from the German and Enhanced by Frank Schmidt

The view of the history of World War II foisted upon the world by the western Capitalists and their Allies the Soviet Communists, is fraught with lies. Many details do not conform to the truth. Lies are intentionally and cleverly interwoven with truth so that Germany appears to be the sole guilty party for the outbreak of the war, which upon careful consideration is a blatant lie. The victors had no reason for going to war with Germany in order to aid Poland, this was proven by the fact that they did not supply that duped country with even one bullet. The hostilities in Poland was the excuse they sought to get into the war, because their real goal was to destroy Germany and wipe out its people. They were not sure whether their hate campaign against all things German had yet reached the desired effect among their propagandized people. However, the truth is now available to those who seek it. Abundant all-inclusive references are now available to those who look for them, and clarity can be gleaned from the many available sources. Getting at the documented facts was hindered in the past because foreign archives were not available to us Germans.

For example the peace flight of Deputy Leader Rudolph Hess to Britain. It is now over 65 years since that took place. Yet nothing has been revealed to the public about it. Why the secrecy? According to an announcement by the British Government the Hess files will be locked up for another 15 years. What do they contain that the generation concerned should not know about? The view of history imposed on the German youth by the victors eventually made post-war German politicians distorters of history, utter liars and willing lackeys of the victors.

Post-war Germany had to accept the so-called "Basic Law" concocted by hate groups in the U.S.A. and France. For appearance sake it contained some freedoms like Article 5 which supposedly guaranteed freedom of opinion. However, freedom of opinion has long ago been abolished in the Zionist vassal state of Germany. It was replaced by a much more stringent law, called the hate law. Paragraph 130 , that muzzles free speech and dubs any denial of the "Holocaust" as hatred because it denies the generally accepted facts as invented in Hollywood in 1967. Those who have the courage to question these "facts" in Germany and Austria, will face a jail sentence of not less than five years.

If you question the post-war generation in Germany who caused the outbreak of World War II, they will invariably reply that it was Hitler. They have not been allowed to know that it was Poland that provoked Germany to go to war by continually violating German territory, by killing unarmed German civilians on both sides of the border for six months before Germany retaliated. They know nothing of Poland's open demand for the German cities of Danzig and Königsberg prior to the war. That it was England and France that declared war on Germany which turned a local conflict between neighbors into a World War II. This is totally unknown to them.

The reason for this deficiency of reliable information about Germany's recent history is due to the constant mendacious propaganda spread by the mass media and political vassals of all colors. An unprecedented lying campaign that has lasted for decades, together with the re-education they have been subjected to has managed to suppress the truth for those who cannot think for themselves. Please note: In occupied Germany newspapers licenses were allocated by Hans Habe, a Hungarian Jew from America who adopted a German name for the purpose of deception. To this day there are many Jews in leading positions in the media of "democratic" Germany. For decades it has been their specific interest to instill a guilty conscience into the Germans so that they can extort more money from them. They keep bringing up the legend invented in Hollywood in 1967 that six million Jews were gassed by the Germans, even though it has been proven that this was a physical impossibility, and did not happen. After World War II the German people were subjected to the greatest system of lies that ever took place in the world.

The conduct of German "Justice."

In the aftermath of the war the puppet government of the Federal Republic of Germany made itself the most compliant co-operator of Germany's enemies. This did not make the edification of the truth in Germany's courts any easier. With all means at its disposal it denies the most reasoned truth in their kangaroo courts, if it does not conform to the "obvious" clause in the law. Even scientific proof is not accepted as conclusive evidence in courts. i.e. if the case involves the chosen people. German jails are full of Holocaust sceptics. Whereas any, or no evidence is required when it involves hatred against the German people. No one has ever been jailed for hatred against Germans.

The founders of the GDR and their successors.

During the lead-in agreements from the occupation to a nominally sovereign Germany, the German politicians really showed their repulsive subjugation to the victors by accepting Germany's sole guilt for starting World War II. This, even though Britain and France declared war on Germany, and not vice versa. Therefore Germany had to endure the burden of defeat. That has been their guiding principle ever since. The war crimes of the Allies can never be called that in Germany and no one can be prosecuted for them. These include the bombing of unarmed civilians which Britain planned and carried out half a year before Germany could retaliate.

The war criminal Churchill who declared war on Germany and ordered the bombing of the undefended city of Dresden which killed hundreds of thousands of civilians, not to speak of about 2,000 Allied prisoners of war being cared for in the city's 17 hospitals. They were turned into ashes just like the civilians in the intense heat.

This man who had no human feelings for his enemies or the British working class, received the honorable Karls (Charlemagne) Prize of the City of Aachen from Chancellor Helmut Kohl. This incident points out the characteristic moral depravity of the puppet politicians of Germany, which has endured to this day.

Today`s GDR politicians are the descendants of the founders of the German vassal state. They, too, have identified themselves with the spread of verifiable lies and for decades have worked against their own people. Germany has become a vassal state of the U.S.A. which in turn has been a vassal state of Israel . A politically independent Germany does not exist nor is it wanted by the re-educated German dupes. 65 years after the war the question even been raised in the UN.

The whole truth about events in the past century has been known for some time. However, current German politicians, servile lackeys all, still shun the truth in order to please their controllers. In today`s Germany whoever openly expresses doubt about Germany`s sole guilt for the war or the Jewish Holocaust, invented in Hollywood in 1967, is guilty of destroying the basic principles of the accredited political parties and would therefore be severely punished in Germany and Austria. Rational independent thinkers, especially those with a national viewpoint, who are openly sceptical of the state sponsored propaganda and struggle against repression are regularly subjected to repression, criminalization and brutal punishment to keep them in their place. Both these states do everything in their power to keep their people from learning the truth about the true causes of the war and its aftermath.

The ``Peace`` Treaty of Versailles, which was actually a gag treaty, forced Germany to accept conditions that made life for the ordinary German impossible.

In his book `The Second World War` on pages 18-19 Churchill writes his about the Treaty of Versailles: "The economic regulations of this treaty were so vicious and foolish that they obviously lost every meaning. Germany was committed to pay unreasonably high reparations. The Allies claimed that it was their intention to squeeze Germany to the core in a war."

Clemenceau the heartless Premier of France publicly stated in 1918 that: "There are 20 million Germans too many.`` There was no outcry against this statement in the "democratic" world.

In Vol. 21., page 455 in Lenin's two books published in (East) Berlin he stated: "We know that for decades the bourgeoisie and the governments of England, Russia and France had armed themselves in order to plunder Germany."

In the First World War when Germany was engaged with vastly superior forces in a war she could not win, the hate tirades against her did not abate. The following prayer was said in the U.S, House of Representatives: From the Congressional Record dated January 10, 1918 VI, LVIs 762 says it all: "Almighty God, our heavenly Father! You know that we are in a life and death struggle with one of the most disgraceful, greedy, mean and blood thirsty, lecherous and sinful nations that have disgraced the pages of history. You know that Germany has caused enough tears to flow from humanity to fill another ocean. And, has caused enough blood to flow to turn the waves of this ocean red. Furthermore it has caused enough moaning and screams from the hearts of men, women and children to build a mountain. We pray that you roll up the sleevesof your mighty arm and drive back this pack of Huns whose fangs drip blood and slime. We pray that you let the stars in their tracks and the winds and waves fight against them . And, when it is all over we shall lift our eyes to heaven and pay homage to our Lord Jesus Christ, Amen!"

This puerile and utterly repugnant diatribe points to the mindset of Allied politicians not only in the highest places in the U.S.A. but also throughout Allied governments. Such gutter language never took place in the Reichstag, nor would it be tolerated by the people. The Germans are too civilized to have resorted to such gutter language both during World War 1 and World War II. Remember that! We are duty bound to remind Americans that the US declared war on Germany in 1917 for no attestable reason. It was not the other way around.

In 1919 in accordance with the Dictate of Versailles Germany was forced to give up her entire gold reserves amounting to some 100 billion Goldmarks to her rich enemies. An inflation on an unprecedented scale followed that soon led to the impoverishment of the German people, which in turn led to massive unemployment in the Weimar Republic. There was not even one ounce of gold behind the German mark. It was just paper money.

Large territories on the perimeter of Germany by the victors and arbitrarily awarded to hostile neighbors in total disregard of the indigenous German population who had voted in an Allied conducted plebiscite to remain in Germany. So much for the oft touted Allied claim of the self-determination of peoples! Poland was re-established from Russian territory in 1916 by Kaisers Wilhelm of Germany and Franz Joseph of Austria. After World War I it was supported by the Western Allies and was arbitrarily awarded the ancient German provinces of West Prussia and Posen (The Corridor) as well as Eastern Upper Silesia. The ancient German city of Danzig was made a so-called Free City with its own administration but had to make certain concessions to the Poles and was subjected to the Allied controlled League of Nations. A total of 2.2 million Germans thus fell under the authority of Polish chauvinists. Right away 1.5 million were forced to leave their homeland by the Poles. A Polonisation campaign for those who were allowed to stay caused untold hardships for the native German population which increased in severity as the years went by.

The life of the Germans in Poland after 1919.
The de-Germanisation carried out in Poland's illegally acquired provinces and promulgated by a government composed of vile Polish chauvinists carried out deportations with no consideration for the individuals concerned. They were simply put on trains and sent west, sometimes with only 10 minutes notice.

One of the methods used was the annual "land reform" or land clearance which dispossessed only the property of Germans without compensation. By 1924 one third of the German property had already been expropriated and the owners had been forced to flee to Germany. The German language was forbidden as an official language and otherwise largely curtailed. On top of that Germans had to pay higher taxes than Poles. German communal buildings were confiscated and German firms and businesses were boycotted by the Poles. Then, there were the one-sided court proceedings which made a farce of justice. German youths were forbidden to apply for permits for higher education and professors were withdrawn from universities. Dismissed workers received no unemployment insurance which they would have gotten had their homeland remained part of Germany. German students were barred from High Schools and Universities and were therefore restricted in their vocational training. Physical abuse as well as assault and battery were daily occurrences. In most cases the Polish police denied Germans any protection. These proceedings led to the emigration of 870,000 Germans from their homeland. That took place in the early 20s, long before Hitler.

The conduct of the League of Nations.

This Allied sponsored organization showed no interest in the plight of the Germans in the newly-created Poland, who were not only oppressed, their very existence was threatened. They sent many petitions for help to the League of Nations, all but 20% were ignored between 1924 and 1936. Due to the Leagues inaction in this case and especially for ignoring German disarmament proposals for European countries, Germany withdrew its membership in this phony organization.

Polish warmongering against Germany.

In the 1930s the Poles were increasingly noted for their unprecedented hate campaign against Germany and the use of force against the Germans under their control. This antagonism for a war against Germany This was object of every section of the Polish population. In 1930 already Marshal Pilsudski wrote in the periodical "Macarstwowiece" (The League for a Greater Poland). "We are very conscious of the fact that war between Germany and Poland cannot be avoided. We must systematically and energetically prepare for this war. Today's generation will see that a new victory and Grunwald (A battle between Poland and the Teutonic Knights in 1410) will be entered on the pages of history books. In this battle no prisoners will be taken and there will be no place for human feelings."

The Polish Foreign Minister Col. Beck said publicly what was on his government`s mind: "Poland cannot be satisfied with the status quo." There you have it, the proof who was preparing for war many years before Hitler was elected.

The crimes of the Poles against the German civilian population.

In the years before World War II some 8,000 Germans were murdered by the Poles in a most bestial manner. Among them were Catholic priests and Protestant ministers as well as a great number of women and children. Up to 1938 the "Land reform" robbed the Germans of 2/3 of their acreage. Hate, terror and official harassment rang in the final act. According to a report from the German consulate in Lodz dated May 8, 1939 "It is evidently the intention of the Poles to wipe out the entire German community in Poland." Whole families spent their nights in the forests to avoid Polish murder bands. By the middle of August tens of thousands of the fields turned up German civilians who were brutally murdered by the invaders. All the villages along the border had been violated and the Poles changed their points of attack regularly. On 26.8.1939 our commando unit caught up to Polish riders in a sugar beet field near Garmsee. We totally wiped them out with our machine guns and buried 47 Polish riders on German soil. In spite of this the raids continued and there were cries for help from border villages from people who had lost friends and relatives in the attacks. By that time 100 civilians had been killed in the area. From the borders came the question, how long will this go on?

At 5.45 a.m. on September 1, 1939 our unit went on the attack. On the other side of the border we found fresh graves of German civilians. Torn and bloody clothing was found along roadsides. From Polish prisoners of war we got the confirmation that the provocative attacks had been ordered by their superiors. The Polish cavalry was indirectly responsible for setting the world on fire.

H.J. Rotzoll

Both Churchill and Roosevelt were looking for a phony reason to sell to their people, so they could get into the war for the total eradication The Wehrmacht (Defense Force) Artillery Regiment 57 from Königsberg, of which I was a member, was ordered to a prepared position at Garmsee, in County Neiderberg, a border area that was threatened by the Poles which was in a corn field. To be outside in this area was a risk to life and limb, especially for workers in the corn fields. Polish cavalry units drove up to 7 km across the unguarded border of Germany. It need not be legitimate nor truthful. Britain had given a promise of aid if Poland was attacked and it was she who urged the Poles to provoke Germany by raids across the border. After the war between two neighbours broke out Britain and France declared war on Germany, but did not lift a finger to aid Poland. But they got the war they wanted. A couple of weeks later the Soviet Union also declared war against Poland and occupied the eastern part of the country. Did the western Allies declare war against the Soviet Union? Certainly not! Was there collusion between the Capitalist West and the Communist East to destroy Germany? There most certainly was.

Just one year before Hitler was democratically elected Roosevelt declared that "There will be a war with Germany." He was further quoted as saying; "In the world of politics nothing is left to chance. Everything is planned and prepared for." Churchill in 1936 when Hitler's economic success became apparent even in some circles in England said;. " We will force Hitler into a war whether he likes it. or not." In a radio address on September 3, 1939 he continued with; "This is an English war. Its goal is the destruction of Germany. Onward Christian soldiers!" For Churchill and Roosevelt Poland was the catalyst to get into a war they had long planned for. The expansion of Poland into German territory suited these war criminals exactly.

British, American and French generals had regularly visited the Polish military in the outbreak of the war, and were active in an advisory capacity. They told the Poles how strong they were against the Germans who had been demilitarized for years and had just began to rearm in1936 and were in no way ready for a war. They told the Poles that most of the tanks shown in pictures were Many sought shelter in the forests to escape the bloodthirsty Poles to no avail. Their tormentors followed them and killed some 20,000 babies, children, old men and women. They were also killed in the city and in their homes. In the City of Bromberg the Poles murdered 5,800 civilians that were officially accounted for. 12,857 were killed in other parts of Posen province. This atrocity was verified by neutral correspondents from all over the world but this has been covered up in the Western media like so many other atrocities with which they were associated.

In this political inspired hate campaign drove defenceless German people together and of the many deeds committed only a couple can be listed here: A peasant woman who simply could not keep pace when her group was being driven to an assembly point by Polish guards was brutally beaten, collapsed and died. Another woman had to drag her four year old daughter along and also keep up the pace, which she could not. A guard beat both of them with a rifle butt, and the child suffered severe head wounds. The mother tried to carry the child but could not keep up. Cursing profusely in Polish one of the guards beat the child to death. To his comrades he justified his action by swearing: "The brat would only bring more German pigs into the world!"

We urgently ask you to read authentic reports on this subject like "Der Tod sprach Polnisch (Death spoke Polish) published by the Arndt Verlag. We also urge you to read the eye-witness reports of Elsa Löser obtainable from Ingrid Zundel, 3152 Parkway, Suite 13, PMB 109, Pigeon Forge, TN e37863, USA. Also recommended writings of Dr. Splittgerber and the publication "Der Schlesier." as well as "Wahrheit für Deutschland" (Truth for Germany) by the renowned Udo Walendy. The publication for Current History also makes good reading.

In 1940 after the searches and identification were discontinued, there were 23,000 new graves registered in the Central cemetery of Posen. According to official 58,000 records in that week of terror. This casualty rate was much higher than the German Army suffered during the battles in Poland.

The war begins.

After the Polish declaration of war against Germany – yes, the Polish declaration against Germany. It was definitely not the other way around! Beginning at midnight between August 31 and September 1 in 1939 the Polish state radio in Warsaw announced the Polish Army had opened fire at many locations along the border with Germany and triumphantly announced the beginning of hostilities with Germany. It let the Polish people know that; "We are now at war and our victorious army is now on the march to Berlin and will be there in a week. The Germans are pulling back in disorder along the whole front."

At 5.45 in the morning of September 1 the young German army was given the order to retaliate for the many border violations over the past months and it sprang into action immediately. At about 9:00 a.m. Adolf Hitler in his short speech to the members of the Reichstag said: "Since 5.45 a.m. this morning we are shooting back!" And that's how the war with Poland began. England and France declared war on Germany on September 3 turning a local conflict into World War II. A couple of weeks later the Soviet Union invaded and annexed Eastern Poland. Even though the western Allies had gone to war to guarantee the borders of Poland, there was no outcry about the Soviet invasion in the West. Was there collusion between Capitalist west and the Communist east? Of course there was.

The course of military action in Poland.

In this conflict against the Polish army of 1.7 million trained men, stood the newly formed German Army of 75 divisions of 1.1 million composed mainly of new recruits. In short but hard battles that lasted three weeks the Polish army was utterly defeated. Germany had by far the better soldiers who took the fight to the land of the aggressor and won.

Churchill's lie factory made out that the German victory to be Hitler's bid for world domination which was utterly ridiculous because his aim was only to recover German territory which the Allies had given to Poland after World War I. All through the war Germany never incorporated even one square meter of foreign soil into Germany, nor was there any intention to do that after the war. As it turned out, the Soviets kept the Polish territory they took in 1939. The double standard is alive and well in the west.

After Germany had won the war against Poland she had to prepare for the upcoming battles against the all-powerful armies of France and England in the west. France alone stood on Germany's western border with 2.7 heavily armed troops. A world war had long ago been decided by the capitalist western Allies. This was aimed at the destruction of Germany which had gone off the gold standard and prospered in bartering trade with neutral countries which greatly benefitted both partners. Contrary to conditions in enemy countries where people wallowed in unemployment, lack of universal medical care and general depression the people in Germany prospered and had benefits in a social system the rich United States have yet to attain. As Churchill said, this system deprived the capitalists of their profits, hence the war.

The German attack on Poland was imperative to protect the lives of the indigenous Germans in that illegally constituted country. The current German politicians are mainly Zionist vassals. They are characterless revolting inveterate liars who gladly do the bidding of those who dominate them. They call Hitler's attack on Poland his intention to dominate the world, which they know is a barefaced lie. Rational thinkers in Germany who have the courage to publicly question some aspects of the war are accused of spreading hatred and jailed. These German dupes have not yet learned that the truth need not be protected by law. It can stand on its own feet. In Germany the lie is protected by law, which only proves that it is the truth!

Germany has always been beset by an extraordinary amount of traitors. One such person is the former Chancellor Helmut Kohl, who true to his Jewish ancestry declared in a government statement on August 11, 1989: "Hitler wanted the war, he planned it and unleashed it. There is no doubt about that. We must be against any softening of this decision."

In a letter to the editor of a newspaper, Bundestag President Rainer Barzel wrote: "Whoever minimizes Hitler's guilt for the war is my enemy."

Former Wehrmacht officer and willing collaborator as long as Germany was winning , broke his oath and deserted his unit when Germany was losing, former President Richard von Weiszäcker thanked the British for having won the war and called May 8, 1945, the greatest tragedy in German history, a "day of liberation."

The traitor Willy Brandt, a man of undetermined origin became Chancellor of what was left of Germany. He fell on his knees at a monument in Warsaw he hurled the ultimate insults the German soldiers who dutifully and correctly fought for their country and people in war brought on by others, who greatly vastly outnumbered them in manpower and resources.

Bertold Brecht, no friend of the Germans , once wrote "He who does not know the truth is a dummy. But he who knows the truth and calls it a lie, is a criminal.:" That applies exactly to today's German politicians. Through their lies, repressive measures and falsification of history German politicians have indeed become the malefactors of current German policy.

After World War II Poland was awarded one-third of Germany's territory in the east, much of it indispensible farmland. At the urging of the victors it also received 38 Billion Deutschmarks in credit. Not even the interest was ever paid back. The Poles called it a gift.

Alfred Nobel, a friend of Germany, whose wife was an Austrian peace worker, must have turned in his grave when Lech Walesa, this Polish chauvinist received his peace prize, especially if he knew what Walesa said! We quote. "If Germany gives us trouble again we should not divide her into zones of occupation, but should eradicate her. We in the East and the West have the power to do so." Here was no Poland in Nobel's lifetime so he would have been surprised that of all people a Pole who moved into German house in Danzig after the owners had been driven out , would criticize Germany. Most galling is the fact that Germany's puppet regime did not respond to this uncalled for attack on the German people.

The 20th century has been called a century of hate, and that`s exactly what it was on the Allied side. Their people had been driven to hate a Germany that never existed. During the Third Reich Germany had the most comprehensive and just social system that ever existed. What the German character was attacked for applied more to the people on the Allied side than to the Germans.

As a wanderer between both worlds I know that in Germany there was no hatred against the people on the Allied side. Even Hitler openly expressed his admiration for the British people and certainly never undertook anything to harm them. Let that be understood!

You must always hear both sides of a story to understand a subject. This is our attempt to do that.

THE LAST DAYS BEFORE THE OUTBREAK OF WORLD WAR II

By Wulf Schuldes. A condensation

The purpose of this essay is to inform the general public about important events of the real forces which altered the course of history. My essay differs from the old established "black-and-white" picture insofar that it attempts to describe what really happened.

Retrospect.

Since World War II was a continuation of World War I we should first reflect the outbreak and "end" of World War I. The three moving which triggered that war were:

1. The rising Pan-Slavism in Russia and in the smaller Slavic nations.
2. Britain's unwillingness to meet the German industrial and commercial enterprises on the world marketing free competition.
3. France seeking revenge for the War 1870-1871, which was started by Napoleon III but won by Prussia.

Beginning in 1904 Germany was increasingly surrounded by a number of treaties directed against her. The alliance of France-Russia-Britain was well knit long before Sarajevo. The Triple Entente being aware of their superiority, were very optimistic. For Austria-Germany it was a fight for survival.

In 1918, in good faith the Germans accepted Wilson's "Fourteen Points" a ploy the Western Democracies had no intention of keeping,

Germany laid down her arms. Brushing their promise aside, the victors proceeded in taking revenge for the fact that Germany had not been defeated on the battlefield. Hate against Germany was the order of the day of the Versailles victors: "The 'Boche' pays everything."

In accord with the treaties of Versailles and St. Germain (1919) large portions of German and Austrian territories with their German inhabitants were handed over by the victors. To unstable counties like Czechoslovakia and Yugoslavian, which they had created. Poland received a large part of Germany with 2.2 million inhabitants. The area was handed over to Poland despite the fact that in the Allies' own plebiscite 85% voted to stay in the German Reich. (30.March 1921)

Poland's attitude towards her minorities 1919 – 1939.
In 1920 , Danzig was severed from the German Republic and the harbour facilities were handed over to the Poles. The City of Danzig was forced to pay 3 million Guilders for a Polish ammunition dump which was built with the blessing of the "neutral" League of Nations. The large territories Poland had received in 1919 had only whetted her appetite. Constant cries for even more German territory were heard in schools, in public speeches and the media.

Poland employed scare tactics and outright terrorism against her newly acquired minorities to intimate voters prior to an election. Many Germans instead of being allowed to vote landed in a hospital or cemetery. This terrorism was tolerated and encouraged by the French troops under General LeRonde who was supposed to supervise the elections.

The effect of one single year of Polish brutality on the indigenous population was devastating. There was a mass exodus of German-speaking natives, some of them with Polish family names, to Germany.

Hitler had swallowed all the humiliation he could take and the following morning, after the Polish state radio had announced that their army was on its way to Berlin. The following morning German troops entered Poland and the war began.

2. September 1939. When the Polish Marshall Rydz-Smigly realized that the war would be lost, he started negotiations at once. But the British Government declared immediately that this must never happen and repeated its determination to help Poland with all its powers. In three weeks of that war Britain did not lift a finger to help Poland. They had gotten what they wanted, Poland had provided the excuse to declare war on Germany.

Germany continued her efforts toward peace. Dr, Fritz Hesse, the German press attache in London was given full authority to negotiate. He contacted Sir Horace Wilson in the Foreign Office, invited him to Berlin and presented the German proposals.

- Germany is willing to withdraw her troops.
- Germany will pay for damages

- Both points under the condition that England accepts the role of negotiator and occupies the area to protect the German minority from Polish terror.

In 1920 the city of Danzig was severed from Germany and cynically declared a "Free City" by the so-called "League of Nations" a creation of the victor powers. Its harbor facilities were placed under Polish control despite of the objection of its inhabitants, 95% of them German. On top of that the City of Danzig three million Guilders for a Polish ammunition dump which was built with the blessing of the "neutral" League of Nations.

Too late! France had now shown her willingness to enter the war Secondly, Winston Churchill had joined the British cabinet and thus the switches were set for war!.

After the Polish campaign had ended Hitler made another generous offer: to withdraw the German troops and hold internationally supervised elections in the German areas of Poland, which she obtained illegally through the victors of World War I. This, too, was rejected by those who wanted a war to retain their possession of the world's resources. We know they got their war and the political dominance not only over Germany, but also of most of the world. And there has not been one day of peace in the world ever since! How could there be, when the "peacekeepers" are actually the aggressors!